Q&A WITH NOBEL PEACE LAUREATE

JODY WILLIAMS

JODY WILLIAMS - 1997 NOBEL PEACE PRIZE-WINNER FOR CREATING AN INTERNATIONAL TREATY TO BAN LANDMINES AND CLEARING LANDMINE FIELDS WORLDWIDE

Williams was born in 1950 in Vermont, USA. She learned to hate injustice at an early age when she witnessed fellow school children ruthlessly bullying her brother who was deaf and suffered from schizophrenia. She developed the courage to stand up to bullies which translated from the schoolyard to a global stage. Like many young people in her generation, she became outraged by the injustice of the Vietnam War, and joined the protests against the war. Williams received a master's degree in second language education in 1976 and a master's degree in international relations from Johns Hopkins University in 1984.

For two years, Williams led delegations to Central America as coordinator of the Nicaragua-Honduras Education Project. She also served as the deputy director of Medical Aid for El Salvador by developing humanitarian relief projects. In October 1992, the International Campaign to Ban Landmines formally launched to end the use, production, trade, and stockpiling of landmines. As the campaign's chief strategist, Williams convinced more than 1,000 NGOs from over 60 countries to support the campaign. In 1996, the Canadian government agreed to draft an international treaty banning landmines. In December 1997, the treaty was signed by 122 countries.

To date, more than 150 countries have signed the landmine ban treaty. Williams continues to work on the eradication of weapons such as cluster munitions and killer robots. Williams joined her sister Nobel Peace Laureates to form the Nobel Women's Initiative, to bring attention to women and children's rights around the world. Williams has been a member of PeaceJam since 1998.

Q&A

HOW TO INITIATE A DISCUSSION ABOUT RACE IN SCHOOL & WORK

THE RT HON STUART LAWRENCE

“My name is Stuart Lawrence and I am the younger brother of Stephen Lawrence (13th September 1974 – 22nd April 1993)

Stephen was a black British teenager from Woolwich, South-east London, who was murdered in a racially motivated attack while waiting for a bus in Well Hall, Eltham on the evening of 22nd April 1993. This tragic event has had a compounding effect on my life.

I stayed in education and followed a creative path which focused on graphics and design, taking a keen interest in typographical design. After I completed a course at the London College of Printing (which is now London College of Communications), I attended Northampton University (which is now University College Northampton) to read Graphic Communication. My working life has been varied; I have worked for the Home Office, HMP Belmarsh, and have recently finished a teaching career which spanned over 15 years at a secondary school in the South-West London area.

My Mum, Doreen Lawrence was elevated to the peerage as Baroness on 6th September 2013 and is formally styled Baroness Lawrence of Clarendon, of Clarendon in the Commonwealth Realm of Jamaica. The honour is rare for being designated after a location in a Commonwealth realm outside the United Kingdom, and due to her not being married the rights that would be bestowed on her husband then went to myself her son, thus my full title is ‘The Right Honourable Stuart Andrew Lawrence’. Having reached a crossroads in my life a couple of years ago, I now spend some of my time with the Stephen Lawrence Charitable Trust to help promote Stephen Lawrence Day (22nd April). Alongside this I decided it’s time to take on the mantle from my Mum in trying to ensure that the people of today have some sort of idea about the consequences of their actions against others, I do this through offering myself as a motivational speaker, keynote and public speaker.

How have you achieved this? What would that world feel like? Who is going to be leader of this world? Who is going to ensure that violence doesn't happen again? A newspaper editor is going to allocate you a slot on the front page of the national newspaper so now you have to think of "headlines." Write the headline of the newspaper 10 years from now, telling the story of what you've accomplished. Pass the headline to a partner, have the partner complete the story and present it to the group.

LOG YOUR ACT!

IN PREPARATION FOR PEACEJAM'S PAN-EUROPEAN ONLINE YOUTH CONFERENCE, WE HAVE BEEN MOBILISING YOUNG PEOPLE IN EUROPE TO ADDRESS THE MOST PRESSING ISSUES IN THEIR COMMUNITIES TO ADVANCE INCLUSION!

From Black Lives Matter to Climate Change, young people are at the forefront championing change, and we want to amplify this through our campaign for an inclusive Europe.

What is the difference between an act of peace and a service-learning project?

- An act of peace is a thoughtful action that spreads more peace in your community and is designed to impact one of the Billion Acts Issue Areas. Example: litter picking in your school/ community as part of efforts to protect the environment.
- A service-learning project can be carried out by individuals or groups, and tackles the root cause of one or more of the Billion Acts Issue Areas.
